Hola Amigos,

I hope you're all well.

I have been travelling for the majority of August. Thankfully, I collected my ID card at the beginning of the month and was able to visit both prisons before leaving Lima again. I had a particularly providential meeting with one of the women in our Bible study at Santa Monica who was about to be released so I was able to chat to her before she was sent back to Thailand. It was lovely seeing everyone again and I am looking forward to regular visits from September.

J & Her Daughter

Arts Conference

The Colombia conference was great, it was really inspiring to connect with other artists from all over Latin America. The main teaching was helpful, challenging us to be intentional with our artwork to shape culture for the better. We worked in small groups and I was part of a team designing a publicity campaign to raise awareness about child sex abuse which is a huge problem in Peru. I have made some new contacts and got to know a painter from my new church who was also on the conference.

My friend Eleri has been visiting and together we went to see J and her daughter who are currently living in the jungle. It was lovely to be in such lush green scenery and spend time with them both. Our trip included visiting waterfalls, playing games, praying and studying the Bible together. J & her daughter are planning to move to the UK in November so I am supporting them through the transition.

Let me know how you are & how I can be praying for you. All my love, Anna xx
